ABSTRACT

This bibliography contains approximately 400 entries on the topic of higher education in other countries. Two items were written in the 1950's, 28 others in the 1960's. Seventy percent of the entries were written after 1974. Nearly all items are published in English, the remaining few in French or German. The bibliography is divided into books; reference works of multinational scope; periodicals; and articles. The articles cover 40 countries with principal emphasis on France, Great Britain, Canada, Australia, Federal Republic of Germany, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Japan, U.S.S.R., India, and Italy. (JMF)

HIGHER EDUCATION IN OTHER NATIONS

PREFACE

The list of references, current for a part of the 1970's, appertains to some forty countries, with principal emphasis on a selected twelve. Put together in the U. S. A., it omits the United States, which might easily have more than quadrupled its bulk, depending on the degree of selectivity.

Currently the premier bibliographer in comparative higher education is Philip G. Altbach of the State University of New York at Buffalo. His two recent books, both published by Praeger Publishers in New York, are: Higher Education in Developing Nations: A Selected Bibliography, 1969-74, pp. 240 (1974), and Comparative Higher Education Abroad: Bibliography and Analysis, pp. 275 (1976).

Within my knowledge the one extant book best suited to provide readable and authentic descriptions and comparisons of higher education overseas is Higher Education in Nine Countries by Barbara B. Burn of the University of Massachusetts, with some collaboration by Philip G. Altbach, Clark Kerr, and James A. Perkins, published in 1971 by McGraw-Hill as a report of the Carnegie commission on Higher Education.

Evidently the work on that excellent book was done prior to 1970, and it is already becoming somewhat dated, which affords a part of the motive for the preparation of this present booklet. Manifestly it is desirable that one or more public or private funding organizations take immediate steps to support the preparation and publication of an updated edition of the volume by Barbara B. Burn, to stimulate further breakaway from exclusively provincial perspectives on higher education in the United States and elsewhere.

The oldest item entered herein bears date of 1950. There is only one other in the 1950's, and 28 others in the 1960's. Of the total of approximately 400 entries, about 30 per cent bear publication dates of 1973 or earlier, and about 70 per cent were published in 1974 or more recently. The year 1975 accounts for 36 per cent of the grand total, and 1976 for 18 per cent. Nearly all entries are in the English language. Only occasionally and rarely occurs an item published in French or German. This is partly in deference to the rather general inland American fright at languages other than English, and partly in consideration of the probable accessibility of the items in various types of libraries throughout the English-speaking nations of both the Western and Eastern hemispheres.

The purpose of this small project is to facilitate the expansion of knowledge of comparative higher education throughout the world. The hope is that if excessive parochialism, provincialism, insularity exist, a modest contribution will be made toward broadening the narrow view and opening new vistas to all persons possessing the spark of curiosity that leads on to enlightenment.

For conscientious and competent assistance, let me not omit my thanks to Gwen B. Pruyne of Illinois State University. Let me also add my gratitude for stimulating study and discussion by my numerous advanced graduate students.

121 Ashby, Lord Eric. "The Future of the Nineteenth Century Idea of a University." Minerva, 6, No. 1: 3-17 (Autumn 1967).

"In every country there is pressure to increase the size of university systems... If governments finance universities, the children of voters must have a reasonable chance to get places in them... Since commerce and industry and government now depend upon learning and wisdom, the institutions which transmit learning must be enlarged to meet national needs.

"Universities still need freedom and autonomy, adapted to a new age... They need one reform which, if it could be achieved, would subsume all other reforms. It is the ability to initiate their own adaptations to society."
